In 2023, The TikTok Creator Marketplace is Making Creator Marketing Easy.
TikTok creator marketing is changing the industry standard.

Big, innovative brands are leaving behind the old way of doing ads and working with our creators instead.

That’s because TikTok creator marketing is effective.

It fosters favorability and trust—which drives performance.

+9% Ad recall driven by creator-led branded content on TikTok (1)

3 in 4 viewers say that the messages in TikTok Creator videos are believable (2)

64% of users buy a product after watching Creator advertising (3)

Source: (1) TikTok, Meta analysis by Kantar, Apr 2022 SIA. (2) TikTok Marketing Science Global Creators Like Me Study, 2021, conducted by Inshare. (3) TikTok Marketing Science Global Creators Drive Commerce Study 2022 conducted by Material. Users bought product directly on TikTok, online elsewhere, or in-person. Creator advertising in this case means a Creator Spark ad (organic content promoted by a brand) or a branded in-feed ad featuring a Creator (paid partnership).
In 2023...

We’ll see big changes to economic climates and internet habits, but TikTok will remain a place for brands to reach people they’re at.

Emotional connections are the key to reaching consumers in hard times, and entertaining creative is the key to those connections.

---

People want to treat themselves

Within an economic downturn, people seek out clothing, food, travel, tech, and in-home entertainment and other “treats.”

---

They use TikTok for research & inspiration

15% of product discoveries in 2022 happened on TikTok and people say “finding new ideas” is one of the “most important reasons for using the internet”.

---

Entertainment drives affinity & purchases

25% On TikTok, ads with a high entertainment value* have 25% higher brand love (and 15% higher purchase intent).”

---

We have new insights and a suite of products that will MAKE CREATOR MARKETING EASY

---

*When compared to ads with low entertainment value. Sources: 4. GWI, “Connecting The Dots,” 2023; 5. TikTok Marketing Science Post-Purchase Analysis conducted by Fairing, 2022; 6. TikTok Marketing Science Global Entertaining Ads Study 2022 conducted by Marketcast.
Part 1: Content Principles

What makes branded content “good?”

It depends on time, place, cultural nuance, and other factors.

But to determine core aspects of top TTCM videos, we analyzed 300+ TTCM videos with high engagement rates and looked for patterns. We noticed most of them had these qualities in common:

1. Ditches the script
2. Finds a natural hook
3. Uses trends (strategically)
4. Picks the right community

Then, we validated our findings with first-party research to ensure they aligned with viewer ideas and sentiments.

Let’s look at each of these a bit more closely and look at how they can be implemented in creative strategies for TTCM campaigns.
Ditch the script

When content is delivered in a creator’s own, natural voice, it can drive performance.

What the data says

52% of users agree that creator content on TikTok seemed like a natural fit between brand and creator.

47% of viewers agreed that Creator content on TikTok felt “authentic”.

Do’s and dont’s

DON’T use prescriptive language
Let creators speak in their own words. Viewers will be able to tell if someone else wrote the lines for them, and it kills the authenticity of a video.

DO share enough info, so the Creator is knowledgeable
A creator’s knowledgeability is the #1 motivating attributes that drives a consumer’s likelihood to buy a product they see on TikTok. (1)

If you need to include lengthy CTAS, DO put them in the caption.
Hearing “link in bio” or “use my code” takes away from the entertainment value of a video and can hurt performance.

Source: (7) TikTok Marketing Science Global Creators Drive Commerce Study 2022 conducted by Material
For Lyft, @heytonytv used his well-loved Vice Principal character to create a skit about how easy it is to drive for Lyft.

Entertaining, organic stories are the key to viewer’s hearts.

What the data says

4 in 5
Users say TikTok is very/extremely entertaining

26%
Viewers spend 26% longer watching entertaining ads

Do’s and dont’s

DO have creators follow their typical style

Don’t make them deviate from what they’re good at — it will stand out to viewers and come across as insincere.

DO give the story time to breathe

It’s OK for your brand to appear later in a video, if it helps the story breathe. That’s better for performance than rushing to integrate your brand before a story is set up.

DON’T try to force a hook where it doesn’t make sense

Ask your teammates and the creator, honestly, if the hook seems convoluted. If it feels off to them, it’ll feel off to viewers, too.

Source: (8) *Compared to ads with low entertainment value. Source: TikTok Marketing Science Global Entertaining Ads Study 2022 conducted by Marketcas
King’s Hawaiian worked with @wereennistogther to put their own spin on the #CookWithMe trend as a part of their #SliderSunday initiative, which shows how the brand’s Slider Buns can take Sunday meals to the next level.

Choose ones that makes sense both for your brand and the creator you’re working with.

What the data says

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Percentage</th>
<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>71%</td>
<td>of users agree some of the biggest trends start on TikTok³</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>77%</td>
<td>of viewers like brands better when they create or participate in trends on TikTok¹⁰</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Do’s and dont’s

DO ask creators to leverage big trends they’ve used before

Tapping into super-popular trends, like ASMR, is a great way to speak users’ language. But creators use trends for the first time in a brand video, it’ll may not feel sincere to viewers.

DON’T feel boxed in by trends with a specific style / tone

78% of users agree that the best brands on TikTok create videos on all sorts of topics and interests.¹¹

DO think beyond just “viral” trends

Utilize longer-term trends that aren’t attached to specific IP, like ASMR and “de-influencing.” Or work with creators that spark buzzier trends (like the creator behind the “It’s A Chicken Salad” sound.)

Source: (³) TikTok Marketing Science US, Understanding TikTok’s Impact on Culture Custom Research, conducted by Flamingo, March 2020 (¹⁰) TikTok Marketing Science Global Community and Self-Expression Study 2021 conducted by Flamingo (¹¹) TikTok Marketing Science Global Community and Self-Expression Study 2021 conducted by Flamingo
This video from @modern.day.classic shows how creators can tap into cultures like #HairTok—and provides a potential way to speak to consumers in relevant industries like CPG or retail.

Speaking to a subculture that's relevant to your brand gives you a built-in audience to work with.

What the data says

- 70% of users say they “feel part of a community on TikTok”
- 76% of viewers like it when brands are part of special interest groups on TikTok

Do’s and don’t’s

DON’T view all communities as interchangeable

Example: A creator who usually posts about #CouplesTikTok and has never posted a ‘fit check might not make good content for #FashionTikTok.

DO speak to adjacent communities to deepen audiences

This helps you test and learn which communities could make sense for your brand, without diving into totally new spaces where it may not work.

DO ask creators to leverage memes and lingo where possible

If they reference in-language, in-jokes, or anything else that makes it clear they understand their community and forth, they’ll drive more trust with their viewers.

Source: (12) TikTok Marketing Science Global Community and Self-Expression Study 2021 conducted by Flamingo
Part 2:
Product user journey

POV: You’re an advertiser who wants to get the most out of their TTCM campaign

Our platform and its features make it easy. All you need to do is:

1. Access the right creator(s)
2. Generate your creative
3. Reach interested viewers
4. Make creative go further

Step 1: Access the right creator(s)

The key to a high-performing campaign is finding the perfect creator to share your message. There’s three main ways to find them:

If...

- You have broad creator personas (like location)
- You have nuanced creator personas (like people who just moved)
- You have a creator in mind (but they’re not on TTCM)

Then...

- TTCM search will help you discover creators based on filterable categories
- Open Application Campaigns allow creators with custom attributions to pitch to you
- Invite Links empowers you to reach out to those creators and get them on the platform
Step 2: Generate your creative

Once you have a creator on board, it's time to make content. Here are some key features that help you get it done.

If...
You used Invite Links to tap a creator
You’re handling the process yourself
You’re new to creator marketing and you want something more turnkey

Then...
Invite Links allows you to complete the campaign in one simple step
TTCM workflow empowers you to customize each step to your business
Starter Packs give you pre-negotiated campaign ideas to launch in a jiffy

Step 2: Reach interested viewers

Want to get your content in front of people who would be most interested in it? Of course you do. Here’s how:

If...
You want to ensure that your content follows user guidelines
You want your content to show up from your Creator partner’s account
You want your creative to show up as ads from your own business account

Then...
Moderation reviews videos prior to posting, minimizing the chances of them being taken down or removed from the For You feed
Spark Ads gives you a way to put media behind their posts
Ads Creative allows you to run creator content as ads from your own channel

Step 4: Make content go further

Get your ad creative to reach as many people, have as many functions, and bring the most value to your brand.

If...
You posted your branded content as an organic video, and you want to drive users to a landing page
You want to refine your content approach over time based on campaign learnings

Then...
Gaming Anchor enables you to share a CTA and link right on the video
Comment Anchor lets you share a CTA and link in the comments of the video
Campaign Reporting will give you the information you need to sharpen your strategy
TL;DR

Key insight:
In 2023, TikTok creator marketing will remain a key way for brands to drive results. Content that ditches the script, finds a natural hook, is strategic with trends, and picks the right community will be the most impactful.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Ditch the script</th>
<th>Find a natural hook</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Don’t use prescriptive language</td>
<td>Ask creators to follow their typical style</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Let creators speak in their own words. Viewers will be able to tell if someone else wrote the lines for them, and it kills the authenticity of a video.</td>
<td>Don’t make them deviate from what they’re good at—it will stand out to viewers and come across as insincere.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

| Ensure the Creator is knowledgeable | Give the story time to breathe |
| Creator knowledgeability is the #1 motivator for a consumer’s likelihood to buy a product they see on TikTok. | It’s better for your brand to appear later in a video than rushing to integrate your brand before a story premise is set up. |

| Put lengthy CTAS in the caption. | Don’t force a hook where it doesn’t make sense |
| If the creator says them in the video it can hurt performance. | Ask your teammates and the creator if the hook seems convoluted. If it feels off to them, it’ll feel off to viewers, too. |

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Be strategic with trends</th>
<th>Pick the right community</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Don’t feel boxed in by trends with a specific style / tone...</td>
<td>Don’t see communities as being interchangeable</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Branching out can pay off; 78% of users agree the best brands on TikTok create videos on all sorts of topics/interests.</td>
<td>When a creator makes content for a community they’re not a part of, might fall flat.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

| ...but ask creators to use trends they’ve used before | Speak to adjacent communities to deepen audiences |
| If a creator uses a popular trend for the very first time as a part your campaign, it might ring hollow to viewers. | Test and learn which ones make sense for your brand, without diving into totally new spaces where it may not work. |

| Think beyond just viral trends | Ask creators to leverage memes and lingo where possible |
| Utilize longer-term trends that aren’t attached to specific IP, like ASMR and “de-influencing.” Or work with creators that spark buzzer trends themselves. | That makes it clear they understand their community and forth, they’ll drive more trust with their viewers. |

---

Source: (13) TikTok Marketing Science Global Creators Drive Commerce Study 2022 conducted by Material
(14) TikTok Marketing Science Global Community and Self-Expression Study 2021 conducted by Flamingo